

Bird's Eye View

By MARTLET

Vote Have We Here?

After hanging around college for a few years, we thought we knew most of the tricks of electoral candidates and their machines, but we confess that at last we've heard a new one.

It seems that some of the lads in Douglas Hall felt that that institution should have a candidate for the office of President of the Students' Society, but they realized that their machine lacked the size and smoothness requisite to bring their man in to victory. So they decided to run him for Vice-President.

Having secured an imposing array of signatures, they brought the nomination list in to the proper authority with all due ceremony.

The Proper Authority read over the list while the campaign manager stood proudly by. When the Proper Authority said, "This nomination list is in perfect order," the campaign manager slunk out.

"BUT," said the Proper Authority gravely, "I regret to inform that there has been no call for nomination for Vice-President of the Students' Society. That officer is chosen by the Students' Council."

The campaign manager slunk out. Douglas Hall is not running a candidate this year.

And the moral of the story is: "Read the Daily and save yourself a lot of unhappiness."

Spring is Here.

Judging by the activity of animal life on the campus, spring is once more with us. We have long heard rumours of bats in the Physics Building; there have been reports of bats seen in the Law Library, and now it is quite certain that there are bats in the belfry of the Redpath Library. Spring is here, and the whole campus is going batty.

Then the Red and White Revue advertisements have been informing us that the third Martlett (us) has been attending the performances in Moyse Hall. We are reminded of Shakespeare's lines:

This guest of summer,
The temple-haunting martlet, does approve
By his loved masonry that the heaven's breath
Smells woefully here: no jutty
Frieze

Buttress nor coign of vantage but this bird
Hath made his pendant bed and procreant cradle:
Where they most breed and haunt
I have observed
The air is delicate.

And then, of course, almost any time one wanders into the Biological Building, one can see headless frogs leaping about, so that students may study the persistence of reflex actions.

Scandal for School.

Our spies are becoming unpopular. Too many juicy items told to them in the strictest confidence have been appearing in this column. Our story about the date broken up by the fellow leaning on the horn at a crucial moment brought in a host of protests from R. V. C.-ites, who thought that it was told about them. It seems that leaning on the horn is a frequent practice.

In revenge, one co-ed who thought that her boy-friend had told us about a similar accident which happened to them, declared that he, although one of the most hard-boiled editors on the Daily, entertains his dates with chocolate cake made by his own lily-white hands.

Dirtiest Crack of the Week.

The following comment strikes us

Debate Preliminaries To Be Held Tuesday

About thirty-five entrants are expected for the Talbot-Papineau debating preliminaries which are to be held tomorrow at 4 o'clock in the Arts Common Room. Every student who has paid the universal fee is eligible to enter this contest. Contestants are requested to sign the lists placed in the various buildings. The resolution will be published in the Daily on Tuesday and speakers will prepare both sides of the question. They will be given five minutes' notice as to the side on which they will speak. The two winners of Tuesday's contest will debate against each other on Thursday night for the cup. Speakers will also be chosen Tuesday to compete for the Redford Prize. H. Baugh will preside.

ARTS '39 HOLD FINAL BANQUET

Jean-Charles Harvey Will Address Graduating Class

President of Graduates' Society Will Outline Functions of That Group

The annual banquet for the graduating Arts and Science students, taking place on Tuesday in the Union, will have as a guest speaker Mr. Jean-Charles Harvey, Mr. Harvey, who has recently returned from a lecture tour of Ontario is the editor of Le Jour, a local French newspaper. The subject of his address, it was announced last night, is to be "Ontario Looks At Quebec."

In addition to Mr. Harvey's address, A. C. Glasco, president of the Graduates' Society, will speak to the students. His topic will be the functions of the Graduates' Society.

This banquet is the last opportunity for the class of '39 to get together before Convocation, as there is no other gathering of the class during the examinations.

The prices for this last informal banquet of the year for this class are being kept as low as possible, it was announced by the executive. In order that all the members of the graduating class may attend, the price is thirty-five cents a head.

THEOLOGISTS OVERCOME ARTSMEN IN DEBATE

Opposing the resolution "that the noble end justifies the ignoble means," a team representing Theology defeated an Arts team in the semi-final inter-faculty debate held Friday afternoon. As a result, Theology will meet R.V.C. in the final of the series next Friday.

The victorious negative team, composed of Wilfong and Thompson, denied the truth of the resolution by maintaining that nothing truly good can be achieved through evil means.

In support of the resolution, the Artsmen, J. Parker and G. L. Caron, contended that means and end are inseparable. As a consequence, if an ignoble means is used to achieve a noble end, the means must be justified.

U.B.C. ASKS FOR MORE LIBERAL REFUGEE POLICY

Former German State Attorney Speaks to Students

CANADA OBLIGATED

Exiles Passing Through Vancouver En Route to Australia

Vancouver, B.C., March 10. — (C.U.P.)—A move to petition members of the Federal government at Ottawa for a more generous and liberal policy in regard to German refugees was begun here last Wednesday as Dr. W. G. Black, President of the League of Nations Society in Canada, Vancouver Branch, spoke to 1,000 U.B.C. students following an address by Dr. Hugo Franck, former state attorney in Berlin who is now a refugee in Canada under a limited visitors permit.

"Canada has not met her implied obligation to the League of Nations," Dr. Black declared. "On Monday a group of refugees will pass through Vancouver en route to Australia where a decent consideration is being made for them. I ask that each of you here present write to your local member at Ottawa petitioning that the barriers against refugees be somewhat relaxed on a basis of selected immigration. Canada can greatly benefit from the intellectual resources of some of these people who are being driven into exile, and they will make useful citizens who will add to the material welfare of the country."

Conditions in Germany.

Dr. Franck, who began to learn English only two weeks ago, told the students of conditions in Germany where "even the iron fence railings around houses and graves in cemeteries are being used for the making of arms."

He told of wholesale conscription of Germany, her people, thought, and ideals, even animals, to the Nazi ideology, and of a general preparation for war. The Nazi theme goes so far in Germany, he said, that youth is being organized to go into each country in the world and explain the Nazi doctrines. "You had an example of this in the recent meeting of Nazis in New York," he declared.

Prevailing conditions in the land of his birth, he believes will continue "for a long time." The seizure (Continued on Page Four.)

CAMPERS CONSIDER DIVERSE PROBLEMS

'Out of the Rut' to Be Theme of Spring Camp

What happens when a trade unionist and a Board of Trade member get together to explain their theories will be seen at the S. C. M. Spring Camp some evening this May. "Out of the Rut" is the theme of this year's camp, which is being held again at Lake Oulahan, near Ste. Marguerite.

Diverse discussion groups are being planned for the morning and early evening, with the rest of the time free for reading, tennis, canoeing and general relaxation. Problems both here and abroad will be discussed, and time will be given to consideration of those problems on the campus, and the personal and religious difficulties of the individual.

A distinguished group of leaders are expected, headed by the Rev. Scotty Cowan of Chattanooga, Tennessee. Mr. Cowan is familiar with the conditions in the southern states and will bring a new point of view to the discussions. Both national secretaries of the S.C.M. have been invited to the camp, and refugee students from Germany, Spain and China are being asked to take part in the discussions.

It is expected that the camp will be a miniature League of Nations, but the campers are not going to try to reform the world; they will merely try to get a better understanding of what is going on in the world today, and also solve some of their own difficulties.

This composition was played yesterday by the Montreal Symphony Orchestra with Eugene List as the guest artist. List is considered by many as one of the most promising virtuosos among the younger pianists in America.

The final lecture by Dean Clarke will be given on March 24, when he will discuss Beethoven's Violin Concerto.

Daily Staff Winds Up Activities With Splash at Annual Banquet

By J. J.

There's an unusual air about the campus this week as youth prepares to take its last fling of the season and settle down to that scientific art known in select circles as last minute cramming. Planning to out do the spreads of other years, the Daily is throwing an annual banquet on Thursday in the Union. Over 100 editors and reporters are expected to attend this affair that will wind up the paper's activities for this year.

Informality will be the keynote of the evening, and there will be no long-winded after dinner speeches that leave listeners in tears of boredom. There will be, however, a collection of jokes of the variety

MEN'S CHORAL GROUP ENTERS MUSIC FESTIVAL

Glee Club Comes Second Against Local Choirs

STATON ADJUDICATOR

Contest Is Similar to Those Held in England

Last Saturday evening the McGill Glee Club undertook a venture new in its history when it entered as a unit into competition in the Quebec Music Festival. This Festival, which follows the example of similar ones all over England and in some parts of Canada, was founded three years ago for the encouragement of amateur musical bodies and for the improvement of musical standards in the province.

The Glee Club was entered this year in the class for men's choirs of B rating. In this class were two other choirs, the Capitol Male Choir of Ottawa and the German Chorus of Montreal, both of about the same dimensions as the McGill organization, but of more mature voices. Set pieces were "Hark! Hark! The Lark" by Schubert, and "There is a Garden in her Face" by Broadhead, the former a sprightly and lyric selection, the latter more flowing.

Staton Criticizes.

Mr. Staton, the adjudicator, in making his remarks, touched on several points, which he said "were designed to help the B choirs, towards becoming A choirs, matters of interpretation, phrasing, and execution." The McGill club, he said, rather naturally lacked the maturity of tone, of its elder competitors. It was, however, the only one of the entire evening's choirs which maintained a perfect pitch, and it made up in interpretation much of what it lacked in tone. The Ottawa choir, which stood out in its precision and balance, was at times a trifle mechanical, while the German Choir exhibited excellent tone, although unfortunate in the pitch.

The executive of the club expressed satisfaction with the results of this first attempt at open competition. In a few years with a conductor like Mr. Norris who is without equal in these parts, and with enthusiasm as great as it has been this year, they are confident the standard will be greatly improved.

Season's activities close this afternoon at five o'clock with the annual meeting, when an executive for the coming year will be elected and plans for further conquest discussed.

Standing in the Music Festival Competition were: 1st, Ottawa Capitol Male Choir, 160; 2nd, McGill Glee Club, 158; 3rd, Montreal German Choir, 152.

COMMERCE SOC. PLANS CHANGE

Considers Amendments to Constitution

Nominations for Next Year's Officers Due Today

An amendment providing for periodic revision of the constitution and one providing for the building up of a reserve account were presented to the members of the Commercial Society on Friday last. Charlie Gale, president of the club, was in the chair.

The president called attention to the fact that nominations for officers of next year's society are now in order and must be handed in to Keith Buckland, secretary, before two o'clock today.

To Build Fund.

The main change in the constitution is planned in order to build up a fund of $800 that the society may finance an annual dance. The profits of this dance will be turned back into the fund and used later to swell the student loan fund or for some other similar purpose. There is a balance this year of $100 which will be used to start the fund.

Regarding nominations, the president must be chosen from the third year, the vice-president from second year, the secretary and athletic manager from either the second or third year and the treasurer from first year.

HISTORICAL CLUBS TO HOLD BANQUET

Formal Dinner at Queen's Hotel; Prof. Heaton Is Guest Speaker

This will take place in conjunction with the Historical Club of Royal Victoria College. The dinner is scheduled to take place at the Queen's Hotel, Saturday, March 18 at 7.15 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Professor Herbert Heaton, noted economic historian from Minnesota University. The subject "Clio in Overalls" or "History Coming to the Hard Facts of Life."

The executive urge that there be a large attendance as this is the final event in the club's schedule. Tickets priced at $1.15 may be obtained from C. H. Von Cardinal, L. A. Seton, G. Rodney, and from the executive of the R.V.C. Historical Club.

Plumber Rides Auto-Wrecking Hobby Horse

U.B.C. Engineer Must Bury Fallen Crate

By J. D. MACFARLANE.
Vancouver, B. C., March 10.—(C.U.P.)—Even deceased automobiles must be properly buried.

This is the salient fact which B. C. Provincial Police pointed out today to William Gross, third year U. B. C. engineer, whose latest hobby is wrecking automobiles.

Last Monday, Gross gave a thrilling noon hour dime-a-head exhibition to his fellow students when he pushed his 1927 Buick Sedan over the 300 foot cliff near the University campus. He made $20 on the deal, and came near to hurting himself when he knee jammed for a second under the dashboard of the moving vehicle from which he was attempting to leap clear.

Shortly after 12.30 noon Gross stepped into the automobile, the engine of which was running, and slipped it into gear. As the car moved towards the edge of the high bank he attempted to jump, but his knee caught under the dashboard for a second. Just before the auto started on its 300-foot plunge Gross freed himself and leaped to the ground to watch his ancient "crate" sail over the edge, landing 100 feet below and breaking in two. The body left the chassis and broke up, while the chassis rolled by a series of bounces to the beach 200 feet below where students attempted to ignite it with gasoline.

Gross was unable to buy this year's licence for his car, and decided to try and make more out of the proposition than he would by disposing of the vehicle to a second hand dealer. Following the magazine account of a similar undertaking by students in an American college, he sold tickets for the exhibition to his friends on the campus, and made a profit of some $20 on the deal.

Now, "Wild Bill", as he has been nicknamed at the University, will have to remove from the beach, or bury all remnants of what used to be a motor car. Moreover he must provide the death warrant of the "chariot" by forwarding the registration papers to the Provincial police at Victoria, with formal notification of the disposal of the vehicle.

"Time-Serving"
WHY do our large universities require that students spend so many years in the Arts course, so many years in Law, so many in Medicine, and so on with the other faculties? Why, in other words, is it presupposed that everyone will take the same amount of time to cover the same course of study? This is a point dealt with in a pamphlet on education in American universities recently published in Pennsylvania, entitled "How Good Are Our Colleges?"
In it, the author points out how illogical it is to suppose that every student has exactly the same power of assimilation, and that a process of education, in which the good student is required to mark time to allow the slower one to keep in step with him, is no better than the prison method of "time-serving".
Of course, most institutions of learning have a way of getting around the difficulty. For instance, some universities allow good students to take one or more "extra" courses during the session, or they see to it that some courses are by nature and content more difficult than others. But what university will allow a student, no matter how brilliant, to graduate from a four-year course in three years? Why must they always insist that the number of courses required for the degree be taken in a set number each year, rather than according to the ability of the candidates, some of whom might be able to accomplish in three years what another person could not accomplish in six years?
To do this, of course, would be to revolutionize the educational system. Naturally, there are countless obstacles in the path of such a step; each individual, for instance, would have to decide (or have decided for him) how many subjects he could profitably undertake to cover during the course of a college term. It is easy to see that such a plan would tend to increase the administrative difficulties of a large institution. Perhaps such a factor as this is the reason that "time serving" has not been abolished long ago. Indeed, it has been done away with in many smaller "private" schools and colleges, where such administrative difficulties would not occur.

Success on the Stage
SOCIAL problems, examination problems, problems of all sorts were forgotten by those who fell under the spell of the four performances of the Red and White Revue of 1939 last week. "Hit" tunes, humorous skits, and bright dance routines all contributed to make this year's edition of the Revue the most successful McGill has seen in many years.
Little need be said about the warm reception with which the show was received. Students, visitors, and graduates who took advantage of the offer to "Come Back to College for a Night" were well in order when they warmly applauded the offerings of the "theatrical" undergraduates.
To Producer William Hingston and his associates we extend our appreciation and thanks for bringing to the stage such a successful college contribution.

The best pictures are still those that have a flavor of the Western with all its ingredients—Indians, chase over the plains, shooting, a feud, the cavalry to the rescue, etc. That was demonstrated with the new picture, STAGECOACH, now playing at the Orpheum.
But this picture has more than the old, well-known elements of a Western. It has the theme of a Bridge of San Luis Rey plot. Nine people thrown together for a brief space of a stagecoach ride between two villages. The intertwining of their fates with the subordinate theme of Apache raids carried on by Geronimo produces a thrilling and deeply moving picture.
A renegade cowboy played by John Wayne, a harlot played by Claire Trevor, a drunken doctor thrown out of the last town he was in played excellently by Thomas Mitchell, the aristocratic wife of a military officer played by Louise Platt, a whiskey drummer who acts like a reverend played by Donald Meek, a gambler who to the last remains a gentleman to Louise Platt played by John Carradine with true art, a marshal taken by George Bancroft, the silly and worried driver taken with the usual Andy Devine split voice, and an embezzling banker fleeing from justice all go to make up the passengers of the stagecoach. And over them on their journey hangs the shadow of Geronimo.
STAGECOACH is a picture that will be seriously considered when the lists of the year's best ten are being made.

"STRANGE CASE OF DR. MEADE."
Characters.....Players

Dr. Hazard.....Paul Everton
Mart.....Noah Beery, Jr.
The time honoured theme of doubles and the mix-ups resulting from their mistaken identities receives a new setting in Honolulu.
Robert Young is cast as Brooks Mason, romantic screen hero and idol of film fandom, and also plays the part of his innocent double, George Smith, the owner of a pineapple plantation in Hawaii. Mason persuades Smith to go to New York on a personal appearance tour, while Mason masquerading as Smith, goes to his Hawaiian residence for a rest. On the boat however he meets and falls in love with Dorothy, an ambitious young dancer, played by Eleanor Powell. Complications ensue however when Mason arrives in Hawaii and finds that Smith was engaged to the daughter of a wealthy merchant, and has apparently disappeared with $50,000 of her father's money. Mason, cleared of the theft charge, is released from jail, and finally decides that the best way to clear up the romantic tangle is to announce his marriage to and thus make Smith rush to Hawaii. The Clipper is delayed however, and Mason is nearly forced to go through with the marriage when Smith arrives just as the ceremony starts, and everything works out well.
Eleanor Powell is her usual brilliant dancing self, and we see her doing a novel hula-hula in native costume with taps. Glacie Allen is cast as Eleanor's dumb girl friend, and her dumbness is really funny.
George Burns as the screen hero's manager provides many amusing moments. The picture as a whole is a good musical comedy and provides many amusing situations, and in addition the dialogue is bright and witty. If you like Hawaiian Music you'll like the music in the picture.
THE STRANGE CASE OF DR. MEADE with Jack Holt is an interesting enough picture but perhaps fails to measure up to some of Holt's earlier pictures. The story of an eminent doctor work in the hill-billy country, it is a bit dramatic in spots, and is good propaganda for the medical profession. However, you'll probably enjoy it.

Scat Alen.....Frank McHugh

It is the story of Cass Harrington, ace flyer and instructor and his younger brother Jerry, cadet in the service. Both are following in the steps of their father, one who sacrificed his life to advance naval aviation.
Cass is crippled in a crash when attempting to aid one of the cadets, trying to pass a practical examination in the air. He is "grounded" for the rest of his life and places all his hopes on a plane which he has attempted to perfect. One of the biggest thrills in the picture occurs when the pilot who is testing the plane points the nose straight down with the motor at full speed. He crashes and is killed.
Jerry, against his brother's will, takes Cass' plane up again and test it, is successful, and thus benefits the navy and all concerned.
A very small amount of romantic interest is introduced when both brothers fall in love with the same girl, Irene Lane, a part so small that it is almost an insult to an actress of Olivia de Havilland's scope. Everything works out for the best and George Brent, a little too heroically gives her up to his brother.
The three hundred U.S. Navy planes photographed against the sky of the naval air base at Pensacola, Florida is remarkable.
The second feature, TORCHY BLANE IN CHINATOWN, features the wise-cracking newspaper-detective, Glenda Farrell, at her best.

Students who have heard and liked Dave Apollon and his Russian Swing Band on the screen will be glad to hear that he tops the show at Loew's this week in a personal appearance on the stage. The lads from the steppes swing it as high as Haman until the theatre simply crawls with jitterbugs.
Variety in the act and uniformity in the excellence of the performers characterizes Mr. Apollon's all-new revue. Melissa Mason's pantomime dance to the strains of "A Tisket, A Tasket" is especially outstanding. The Three Oxford Boys do vocal imitations of bands; Ruth Petty and Mildred Law present an act of mingled singing and dancing numbers; Tommy Trent and his Punch and Judy Show should be appreciated by the many childlike minds at McGill; the Six Honeys, naturally, are very sweet; and Henry Morton contributes the comic touch to complete the program.
STORM OVER BENGAL, on the screen, is another British propaganda picture of one of the far-flung outposts of Empiah. Patric Knowles, Richard Cromwell, and Rochelle Hudson attempt to portray the British character.

CANADIAN CAMPUS
By JOHN H. McDONALD
Following is the ninth in a series of articles by the President of the National Federation of Canadian University Students in which the new ten-point policy of the Federation is outlined.
IX—THE FORMATION OF AN ADVISORY COUNCIL.
One of the most important steps taken by the Executive Council of the Federation last winter at the meeting in Winnipeg was the decision to ask certain prominent citizens to act as Honorary Officers of the Federation.
It was felt that if the leading men in the Dominion could be interested in the work of the Federation they could be drafted into a Board of Advisors who could be of great benefit to the organization. In the first place it is felt that these men, with an insight into the problems of the country, would be in an excellent position to suggest services which the Federation might adopt for the benefit of its members. It was also felt that some of these advisors might be in a position to help implement some of these suggested services.
When the Canadian University Press was organized it was felt by its first officers that a university press association of this nature should have as its advisor a man prominent in Canadian Journalism. As a result the executive approached the Dean of Canadian Newspapers, Dr. J. W. Dafoe, of the "Winnipeg Free Press." Dr. Dafoe graciously accepted the Honorary Presidency of the University Press and the organization has been happy to have him associated with it ever since. The backing of such a man shows those working and building that there is an active interest in their efforts being taken by the older generation and they are encouraged.
If the Federation can obtain the interest of men of this caliber and if such citizens can play an active and constructive role in the suggestion of ideas and can from time to time help in more concrete ways the Federation will indeed be fortunate.
One of the definite ideas behind this suggestion is the possibility of obtaining a large sum of money in the form of a governmental grant for Scholarships or other specific work. If such a grant should be forthcoming it is reasonable to expect the donors to ask who will be responsible for the safe-keeping of the capital sum. The Federation hopes to obtain the services of an Honorary Treasurer who would inspire confidence and who would be able to administer such a fund—allowing it to scholars appointed under the Federation's Scholarship scheme.

The Debating Union Replies.
To the Editor of the McGill Daily:
Sir,—Last year the Daily ran an editorial entitled "Debating Union—R. I. P." and its tone was somewhat similar to that in the March 6 edition of this year. Allow me to quote from that year old paper: "The fault lies with the executive of the Debating Union for not preparing a program that will attract. It is futile to point out that Hart House in Toronto would sink into the ground with shame over a turn-out such as the Union witnessed last night."
At that time the Debating Union had probably its best executive in years. It seems to be an attribute of the Daily editorials to criticize the Union every so often. This is one of the surest signs possible that a society is alive when the press can give it such favoured attention.
As to the actual criticism, I wish to point out some pertinent features of your editorial. The first issue raised was that there have not been enough Mock Parliaments this year. The actual value of Parliaments is somewhat in doubt, due to their failure at Hart House in Toronto. They were run by the staff of the University, and were probably the height of sportsmanship and debating. Yet this year, Toronto could not meet two debaters from McGill who visited the Queen City because there was a lack of interest in public speaking. Yet the Daily advocates this system without proper investigation. Also as the editorial points out, the development of new speakers is of prime importance. Yet how can an inexperienced man correct his faults in a Parliament where there are no judges. The classical style of debate seems to be the one most likely to train good speakers.
Now the question resolves itself into a consideration of classical debating at McGill during the past year. The Daily is apparently unaware that the Interfaculty Debating, which is called excellent, was started by the Debating Union and is under the jurisdiction of the Society's executive. Allow me to invite everyone to the finals to be held this coming Thursday. As to the inter-class debating, I wish to say that these societies have largely been instigated by the Debating Union, but are under the supervision of the respective undergraduate societies, so the Union can only co-operate and has no direct supervision. As their chairmen can point out, this Union has always co-operated by furnishing judges and other advice. The execu-

Emulating their colleagues who did so well in tennis B.W. & F. etc. Varsity coeds edged out the McGill shuttlecock experts by a score of 18-17. By winning the Singles 2 championship, Varsity decided the tourney. McGill, however, proved invincible in the doubles, while McMaster took the Singles 1 honors, with 16 points to her credit. Queens placed fourth with 10 and Western fifth with 3 games.

The McGill doubles team in the able hands of Lila Redmond and Dora Proven was superb. They handled their opponents with surprising ease, not losing one game in the whole tourney. Helen Bryce, the McMaster Singles No. 1 player, gave one of the best exhibitions of badminton that has been seen in many a year, but once letting a match go to three games. She stood in the middle of the court smashing the bird continuously, and kept her opponents running around in circles. Rosemary Annesley who won the Singles 2 Championship for Varsity undoubtedly played the deciding match of the meet when she defeated Margaret Scott in a three game tilt, 11-7, 8-11, 11-8.

The line-ups were as follows: Toronto, Singles No. 1 Mary Becker, Singles No. 2 Rosemary Annesley; Doubles, Catherine Bryans, and Hildegarde Goodfellow, McMaster, Singles No. 1 Helen Bryce, Singles No. 2 Adrena Macfarlane; Doubles, Laura Dorsey, Margaret Simpson. Hank Findlay Third In Jump; Bott Wins

While ski conditions are still good the number and importance of ski meets has been on the wane, and the number of McGill skiers in the meets has been even less.

In the jumping at Cote des Neiges on Saturday, Punch Bott took away all honours with three stylish jumps of 120, 121 and 127 feet to capture the Washington Trophy. Hank Findlay was the only McGill entrant, and his leaps of 117, 116 and 108 combined with good style earned him third place behind Yves Brassard of U. of M.

At St. Sauveur a strong field of B and C class skiers competed yesterday for the Hill 70 trophy. The trophy was won by the Totem Ski Club. Ralph Endre of St. Sauveur was the individual winner. He came in first in the good time of 1:4.8. Of the McGill skiers, L. Wilson came 27th in a field of 60. P. Paquin finished 33rd and G. Townsend and T. Daly followed in that order.

The Dominion Cross-country run from St. Agathe to St. Sauveur was won by Galt Gillespie of Esterel. There were no McGill entrants.

McGill Coed Hockeyists Lose First Contest in Four Years

By WINNIFRED FAIRHEAD.

Meeting their Waterloo last Saturday at the Forum, the coeds absorbed their first defeat of the season. In a fast flashy game the Bishops girls managed to get most of the play and to keep the R.V.C. ites puzzled with their power attacks on the red nets. The score was 2-0.

Starting the game with a clear record of wins for the last four years, the R.V.C.ites were hopeful but when the Bishops girls started sending the whole squad down the ice, they started to fight and fought their hardest throughout the rest of the game. The Lennoxville sextette started the initial frame by keeping inside the McGill blue line almost continuously. But with Eleanor Hunter on guard the Red hockeyists managed to keep them away from the nets for the first half of the period, then Joyce Standish, one of the Lennoxville girls, started lone dashes towards the McGill nets. Milly Marlin passed her the puck on one of these occasions, and Joyce very neatly snapped the puck into the McGill nets. Betty Prince and Sylvia Grove did their best to redeem the loss, but it was to no avail as Bishops were constantly on the alert, with Rosamund Staples of Lennoxville keeping the R.V.C. squad guessing. Marj. Ewen made a good many saves which helped to keep the Lennoxville score down.

McGill started the second period off with power attacks on the Bishops' nets, with the puck most of the time in the able hands of Mary Matthews. Rosy Staples was right on the spot all the time checking the girls in her own inimitable style. Eleanor Hunter was also doing her best to redeem the McGill end of the game, but she couldn't seem to get past that defence line. Excitement was predominant throughout the entire frame, with hard checking, fast skating, and with Rosy Staples and Peggy Lamb crashing into the boards occasionally.

The last period saw the Bishops' sextette cinch the game. The play was as fast as ever, but Bishops had the upper hand. Marj. Ewen was making brilliant saves left and right. The only casualty of the game occurred about half way through the frame when Betty Prince was knocked out when she hit her head on the boards. From then on there was a concentrated attack on the Red nets. The McGill girls would occasionally get the puck but would leave it behind on the way up the ice, and the whole Lennoxville right on the spot would take it down towards the McGill nets once more. Near the end of the game on an assist from Milly Marlin, B. Green bulged the nets for a second time for Bishops. McGill fought to the finish but they just couldn't get the breaks, and the game ended with Bishops having a lead of two goals. The lineups were as follows:

McGill: Marg. Ewen, goal; Peggy Lamb, Barbara Barnard, and Ruth Schofield, defence; Sylvia Grove, Eleanor Harris, Eleanor Hunter, Betty Prince, Elspeth Russell, Ainslie Mitchell and Mary Matthews, forward line.

Bishops: Goal, E. Everett; forwards, Rosamund Staples, N. McDougall, and A. Bellam; forwards, M. Marlin, G. Greene, J. Standish, E. Groome, K. Bancroft, and B. McDougall.

HELLO ROSIE BY ROC

It was Bishop's versus McGill — but that isn't the way it happened and we're writing about what happened. Therefore this will be an eulogy on Rosie. It was Rosie here and Rosie there and as one McGill forward protested to the coach's plea to pass around her: "How can you—she's all over!" It was Rosie this and Rosie that and this time we heard another McGill forward remark: "What can we do—after all she's got glasses on!" Get it?

Seriously though, to give Rosamund Staples all due credit, she plays good hockey. She's fast, she can stickhandle which is rare in a girls' hockey game, and she can be rough at the opportune moments in the right places. She set the pace for Bishop's who went to town on the wide open spaces at the Forum. They like a big rink being used to one in practice and they outfought, outstayed in general outplayed a McGill team that looked tired and ragged for most of the game. The McGill defence, Peggy Lamb-Eleanor Hunter combination, were the exceptions, holding the team together, cool in repulsing Bishop's attack and adding spur to the McGill offense.

The spectators, bequeathed from a previous game, were mostly superior male kibitzers who stayed to be amused. We hate to admit it being touchy about that sort of thing — loud haws were frequent, but sympathy wasn't lacking either. Several men came over with helpful suggestions expecting us to relay them to the coach.

It was too bad for that four year record. A let-down especially for the senior players. They hadn't had that feeling before—didn't know exactly how to display the proper emotion. They were slightly dazed. They had beaten Bishops once this year.

Another year gone and it was a good year, flying colors well deserved. Valuable seniors will be

Winners Clash With Engineering for League Title

Showing a complete reversal of form and regaining their early season stride that saw them dominate Faculty competition, the Medicine Interfaculty Hockey squad rode into the loop's final playoff against Engineering with a brilliant 5-2 victory over Macdonald College here Friday afternoon.

With one front-line and a pair of rushing defencemen carrying the offensive, and backed by a stellar goal-tending display by Bill "Brimsek" MacLaughlin, the Meds rammed home three goals in the third period to break a two-all tie and provide the margin of victory. To pick an individual star for the winners would be impossible as each player turned in a standout performance.

Scott Paces Winners.
Al Scott, the little package of dynamite on left wing paced the attack with two goals and an assist. Ted Tweedie helped himself to a goal and three assists, while Graves the third member of the line had a hand in three goals. Ken Norris and Jim Dodds left their defence post long enough to garner a goal apiece. Owen scored both tallies for Macdonald. In contrast to the slug-fest at Macdonald a few weeks ago, Friday's game was comparably tame with only seven penalties being handed out, all of a minor nature.

Macdonald took an early lead in the first period when Owen tallied on a pass from Ogilvie at the 4.35 mark. Meds got back the equalizer eight minutes later when Scott

ARTS 3.

The Union is the centre of extra-curricular activities on the campus, and the one common ground for the students of all the faculties to meet in their respective clubs and societies. It is thus the focus point where should be found the real college spirit at McGill University.

First, then I would earnestly endeavour, with the close co-operation of the other executives elected, to keep these main purposes before me in the union's administration.

In the past a minority number of students have received their due benefit from the faculties at their disposal in the Union. In order to remedy this, not only would I make it more attractive to Freshmen entering the University next term by giving much personal thought and management to this perennial problem, but also by assuring all the students who have paid their universal fee that they will receive the maximum return on that portion of the fees which is allotted to the Union by the Student Council.

I will meet all the clubs and societies which periodically assemble in the grillroom and ballroom to discuss and arrange the hours and space which will be most satisfactory to their needs. If any new societies are formed for whatever purpose which is in accordance with the spirit of the Union and University they will be welcomed at the Union to establish their headquarters.

The number of students who eat in the cafeteria has dropped considerably in the past few years. There is no reason for this condition to exist, and something must be done about it. I will look into this question with intent of improving upon the present rates charged, or of having more attractive food provided. It is simply a matter of competing with outside restaurants and cafeterias, and that can be accomplished, I feel certain.

The basement of the Union where are found the sources of so much of our reading matter, not excluding the library, is in a very deplorable-looking state, and I don't know why this condition has not been given attention before now. My policy on this score is renovation.

Undoubtedly there are more students here that play billiards and ping-pong, or would like to, but feel restricted on account of the prevailing prices. I know that not only could they find greater interest in these activities through a reduction in the rates, but also would the Union have no unfavorable balances, for the reduction would be taken up with the increased activity.

With careful management the Union acquires, through the facilities offered, a social atmosphere that is unattainable elsewhere. Having this in mind I understand the responsibility in carrying out my platform, and if elected would willingly do my utmost to fulfil the position to the best interests of the student-body.

COMMERCE 2.

In setting forth a platform the main factor is to make it as clear as possible; since my first duty is to the students mine may be briefly stated. It is my wish that the Union be given over completely to the needs of students. Recent executives have successfully introduced a wider student program, their success warrants the furthering of such efforts. A more complete program offering attractions to all students of the University whatever their interests, would be my aim. At all times I will do my best to satisfy the demands of the students and to perform my duties to the best of my ability. The Union is your building and it is your natural duty therefore to elect to office an executive that will carry out your wishes.

talled with the help of his linemates, and then took the lead when Norris and Tweedie combined for the prettiest goal of the game, the fast-skating defenceman driving the puck home. This lead lasted until with nine seconds to go in the middle canto Owen bagged his second tally for Macdonald, again on a pass from Ogilvie.

Meds Clinch Game.

Meds assumed the offensive at the start of the third period and got results as Tweedie back-handed in to the net what proved to be the winning goal after a passing bout with Scott and Graves. Not content with this the Sawbones struck twice again with less than three minutes to go. Scott banged home the first one, and then with ten seconds to go Jim Dadds broke away from a five man Macdonald attack to score unassisted.

The lineups were as follows:—

Macdonald—Goal, Stuart; defence, Robinson, Brissenden; forwards, Bean, Owen, and Ogilvie.

NEWMAN CLUB RETREAT

Services Morning and Evening Throughout Week

The regular retreat of the McGill Newman Club is being held this week in the Lady Chapel adjoining St. Patrick's Church. Reverend Father Hackett of the Passionist Order, retreat-master, will devote the entire week to the special problems and interests of college students.

The morning services consisting of Mass and a short instruction are at 7.30 while the evening services are at 7 o'clock.

OUR CIRCLE

Each of us is bound to make the small circle in which he lives better and happier; each of us is bound to see that out of that small circle the widest good may flow.

—A. P. Stanley.

ARTS 3.

First of all, I would like to thank all those who nominated me as a candidate for this most important executive position; if I win, I will try to justify their confidence in me.

My executive experience has not been as great as that of many others who are trying for posts in these elections, but I have been on the executive of many societies and organizations both in and out of college. I have made some study of the Administration of the Union and I have come to the conclusion that with a little common sense and a lot of hard work, the incoming executive can make the Union more of a paying proposition than it is at present, and the real centre of Extra-curricular activity. An elected executive should remember its responsibility to and dependence upon those people who elected it. If I am elected, I will try to see that suggestions made by members of the student body receive full consideration.

Since the powers of a Vice-President are limited, it would be useless for me to make sorts of promises which, in the final analysis, I could never keep. However, I can enumerate certain points in connection with the administration of the Union, that, in my belief, merit the very close attention of the next Union Executive.

No one must be allowed to encroach upon the rights of free speech at McGill. The Union must remain a place where students can hear all sides of any issue in which they are vitally interested.

The Union Cafeteria should be given more publicity; the quality of its food should be raised and the meals should be as reasonable as possible. Freshmen should be encouraged to save their money and buy meal-tickets—this would get them into the habit of eating at the Union.

I believe that the price of billiards and ping-pong can be lowered to a point where an increase in the number of users will offset any unit loss occasioned by the price reduction.

The basement of the Union ought to be repaired and redecorated, especially the rooms that come in for so much use as those allotted to the Daily and the Players' Club.

to fit in at any position from snapshot to halfback. This year Rossiter has watched McGill take the Championship from the sidelines. But his patience, willingness, and readiness to take the field on any occasion when his services were required gained ready recognition. At the Football Banquet this year the coaches presented Rossiter with a gold watch. There can be no greater tribute.

Rossiter's talents were not restricted to football. He rounded his extra-curricular activities by taking an active part in several productions of the Red and White Revue.

After Ernie leaves McGill he will probably make practical use of his studies in Commerce. We can only wish him luck and know that Ernie will do the rest.

rating at his middle wing position. However, in the team's second pre-season game against R.M.C. he received a leg injury which kept him out until midseason. In the Queen's game at Kingston he dislocated his shoulder which kept him out for the remainder of the season.

It was Murray who was instrumental in helping to popularize the new McGill song "We Don't Give a Damn—" which made the rounds of Molson Stadium and found its way into the repertoire of the band.

MEDICINE 1.

A platform should be brief and to the point, and so I shall try to make mine so. In the first place I will make no promises as to what I shall do; there are however, a few ideas that I should like to put into effect.

As every one knows, all the men students pay their good money to assist in the upkeep of the Union—hence they should take advantage of the facilities provided, both as individuals and in clubs. I would try to encourage this as much as possible. Interest in billiards, ping-pong and chess could be revived by tournaments. Most students don't realize the wide variety of magazines and newspapers from all over the country that are available. Also there are four pianos waiting to be used.

With reference to the reading room, I think an improvement would be to have two sets of folding doors put in so as to divide it into three temporary rooms when necessary. Frequently the facilities for meetings are inadequate.

As McGill has no Gym I think the Ball Room could be equipped for badminton courts with very little expense. This would add considerably to the enjoyment of the Union.

The cafeteria should be encouraged and the students made to realize its advantages—not only the men but also the women. It should also become a free period rendezvous. The coffee could be improved by the purchase of a Silex.

These are a few ideas I had in mind for improving the Union. If I am appointed I will do my best to fill the position satisfactorily.

DAKOTA STUDENTS QUIZ PROFESSORS

No Cries Found Among Faculty

Brookings, South Dakota.—"Outside a cemetery sat a harassed cobbler and an embarrassed oculist, picnicking on a desiccated apple, and gazing at the symmetry of a lady's ankle with unparalleled ecstasy."

A few big words there, but it's an innocent enough looking sentence. But it was the stumbling block for faculty men on the campus.

During exam week students decided to turn the tables on the professorial fraternity, so they had an even dozen faculty members take dictation on that sentence, then checked the spelling. Those taking the test included three English professors, the head of the journalism department and a proofreading instructor.

Professor George E. Smock, head of the English department, was ashamed of his three errors, but he could console himself that he was better than average. For the average faculty score on the sentence was four-and-a-quarter misspelled words. Only Mrs. Esther Korstad, typewriting and shorthand instructor, spelled every word correctly, while one faculty member missed ten words.

Students conducting the tests found no cries.

PRECIOUS THINGS

Among the precious things to be held fast are gentleness, humility, and the mind of him who, conscious of strength, is content to be weak.

A STEADFAST SOUL

The thing most to be desired in peace or in war, in private or public life, is a steadfast soul.

The Student Voice

These tunes undoubtedly equal in rhythm and "catchiness" the Princeton Triangle Club songs of several years ago and the University of Pennsylvania's current hit "This Can't Be Love". However, a noticeable and disappointing feature of all McGill programs is the prominence of the tune "Put on Your Gray Bonnet", with the Barbasol theme song inserted from time to time. Are THESE McGill songs?

We suggest that while talented composers are present in the University, they be persuaded to write some original songs for Old McGill.

Here's to new and better McGill songs by the composers of the present hits!

Yours truly,
TWO MED STUDENTS.
